MOOC Qualitative-Survey Analysis 2020

Welcome Survey

Summary: The Welcome Student Survey asked course members an anticipatory open ended question about how the course helps meet personal or professional goals.

Method:

A data software, MAXQDA, was used to assess the open ended responses with themed codes centered around two main categories, Professional and Personal goals. Sub themes were taken from response overview categorizing responses as: Gain better understanding, expand to assessment role, gain tools in assessment, or expand culture of assessment.

Results:

34 responses were recorded, which mentioned the course meeting professional goals and zero results for personal goals mentioned in the open responses. 39% of these responses mentioned the course meeting professional goals of gaining a better understanding of assessment. 28% of these responses mentioned the course was able to help one expand in their assessment role at work. 21% of these responses mentioned gaining additional tools in assessment. 12% of these responses mentioned growth in culture of assessment awareness.

User Experience Survey

Summary: The User Experience Survey asked course members two open ended questions, 1.) Provide general feedback on the course. 2.) How did this course meet personal and professional goals?

Method:

A data software, MAXQDA, was used to assess the open ended responses.

Question 1.) Used themed codes centered around four main categories: Positive, Negative, Steps for Change, and Key Takeaways. Sub categories for Positive include: Gratitude, Appreciation, Overall Features, Instructor Engagement and Appreciation, and Course Time. Sub Categories under Negative include: Overwhelming discussion posts and course feature malfunctions. Sub Categories under Steps for Change include: Additional interactive activities, updated resources, diversity inclusion, feature additions, additional time, and skill level clarification. Sub categories under Key Takeaways include: Professional development, advance level experience, beginner level experience, and sense of community and culture.

Question 2.) Used themes codes centered around two main categories, Professional and Personal goals. Sub themes were taken from response overview categorizing responses as: Better Understanding, Provides Additional Resources, New Exposure, Tools to Lead Assessment, Applies to Institution, Assessment Refresher, Actively applies to Work, Culture of Assessment, Increase confidence in Assessment, and New Learning Skill.

Results:

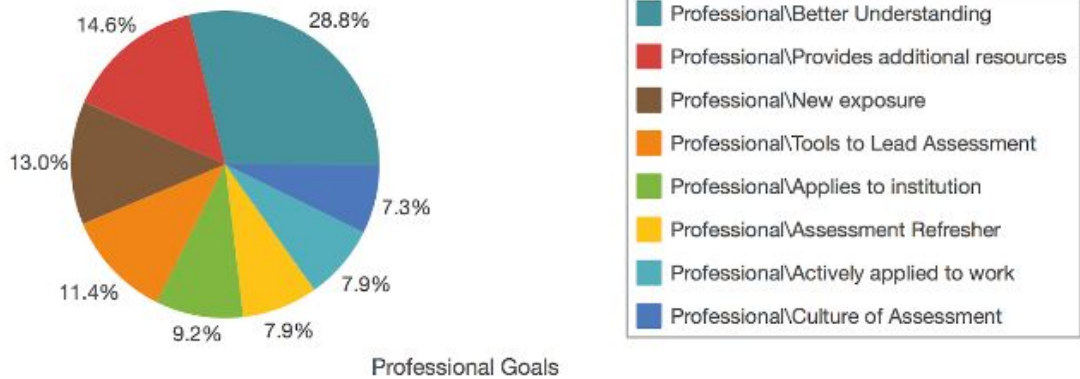

1.) 190 responses were recorded. 59% of these responses were coded as positive responses. 17% of these responses were coded as key takeaways. 16% of these responses were coded as steps for change. 8% of these responses were coded as negative. (See graphs for specific breakdowns)
